

Free 12-Week HYROX Training Plan

Written by Dom Sharpe, who races HYROX himself. Base phase through race week.

Straight up front: Dom races HYROX himself, most recently finishing HYROX Manchester in 1:27:37. This plan is built on how he actually prepares clients and himself for race day, not a template written by someone who has never stood in a roxzone.

How to use this plan

Six training days a week, one rest day. If six days isn't realistic, cut to four and protect the two strength days plus one compromised-running session, everything still works, it just takes longer to arrive. Effort is written as RPE (Rate of Perceived Exertion, 1–10). RPE 7 means you could do roughly 2–3 more reps than prescribed. Warm up properly before every session, ten minutes minimum, longer before the heavier days.

Sled loads, wall ball weights and carry weights vary by age group and category (Open, Pro, Doubles). Check the current HYROX rulebook for your division and load accordingly, don't guess on race day.

The eight stations

Station	Distance / Reps
1. SkiErg	1000m
2. Sled Push	50m
3. Sled Pull	50m
4. Burpee Broad Jumps	80m
5. Rowing	1000m
6. Farmers Carry	200m
7. Sandbag Lunges	100m
8. Wall Balls	100 reps

Every HYROX race is the same shape: an 8km run split into eight 1km segments, with one of these eight stations after each segment, in this order, every time.

The four phases

Weeks	Phase	The job
1–4	Base	Aerobic engine and general strength. Nothing race-specific yet.
5–8	Build	Compromised running begins. Station technique gets drilled every week.
9–11	Race Prep	Full simulations and race-pace work. Peak specificity.
12	Taper	Volume drops hard, intensity stays. Arrive rested, not battered.
